Mobile Museum of Tolerance Comes to Elmhurst Public Library

ELMHURST— Elmhurst Public Library will be hosting the Mobile Museum of Tolerance Monday, July 10 – Thursday, July 13 at the east end of the parking lot.

The Mobile Museum of Tolerance (MMOT) is a traveling mobile education center, the first of its kind in the U.S. The museum uses innovative technology and interactive lessons to bring its message of tolerance directly to communities across Illinois. The purpose of the MMOT is to inspire people of all ages and backgrounds, empowering them to raise their voices to combat issues of anti-Semitism, bullying, racism, hate, and intolerance.

Stop by to browse the museum during open hours or attend special events to learn how to promote human dignity. Special events about Civil Rights, the Anne Frank Story, the Power of Ordinary People, and Digital Media Literacy will be presented.

For a full schedule of hours and descriptions of presentations: visit elmlib.org/MMOT or call (630) 279-8696.
