Elmhurst Man Is Outstanding Educator

Dr. George H. Wilson, 522 Park, Elmhurst, chairman of the music education department of Chicago Musical College, Roosevelt University, Chicago, has been named an outstanding educator of America for 1971 by Outstanding Americans Foundation, 154 E. Erie, Chicago.

Nominations for the awards are on the basis of teaching skills, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service, and professional recognition.

Before joining the Roosevelt University faculty in 1969, Wilson taught for 16 years at his alma mater, Ohio State University. He holds a master's degree from the University of Michigan and a doctorate from Ohio State.
